

World watching result of six-year fluoridation experiment in Germany

The City of Kassel, West Germany, is completing three years of a six-year water fluoridation experiment which has drawn wide international attention. Kassel hopes to get a definitive answer to the question whether tooth decay can be prevented by fluoridating drinking water.

Soft white spring wheat south Alberta

OTTAWA — Soft white spring wheat is a crop that is being grown successfully in the south-western part of Alberta, and this is the only wheat in Western Canada where it is grown to any extent. So far soft wheat has been grown only under contract between the farmer and the milling company.

Soft wheat should have a low protein content to make good quality flour. Southern Alberta is well suited for the production of soft wheat, as it is grown on irrigated land where the high content of cereal crops is usually low. Floury flour is used in baking such products as cookies, biscuits, shortbread, pies, cakes, various kinds, and cereals.

In the present time, according to A. M. Wall, Lethbridge experiment station, the soft wheat of Agriculture Canada is the softest and most desirable for southern Alberta. It is a high protein wheat, with a high yield. It is a susceptible strong stem and is susceptible to rust, but it is susceptible to rust, and rust is not a problem in the present time. It is a high yielding variety of wheat, possessing a high degree of rust resistance, and quality equal to or better than the standard.

An intensive breeding program was initiated at the Experimental Station, Lethbridge in 1934. The objective of the program was to produce a high yielding variety of wheat, possessing a high degree of rust resistance, and quality equal to or better than the standard.

Many crosses have been made involving rust resistant parents. Some of the lines developed from these crosses are resistant to rust, but the samples shown in the picture have been carried out for the purpose of showing the results of the breeding program. Human stomach cause of U.S. farm problem

A University of Michigan economist says the United States will always have a "farm problem" because the human stomach is the cause of the farm problem.

"Almost every other community has an adequate market — one that attracts you can buy several cars, houses, vacations, washing machines, toasters, etc.," said Prof. J. Philip Wernicke of the School of Business Administration.

"That the farmer's ultimate market, the human stomach, just can't absorb all that increasing food productivity is making possible."

Worry and work ripe for older age

By L. B. Barnard, Jr. of New York, N. Y. The factory vice-president gave this advice recently to a public speaker: "Worry and work are a man's best friends. Worry it's a day. Never relax, worry a lot and you'll be a millionaire. Work 10 years without taking a day off or a holiday. Never stop to work when he is old and not to work when he is young. The idea of the Corporation when he was a man." 2182

World Happenings In Pictures

JAZZ ARTIST—Romano Mussolini, 25-year-old son of the late dictator, performs at piano in preparation for the first Italy International Jazz Festival. He will play in a sextet. El Duce's youngest son started with music while in a concentration camp after his father's regime collapsed.

"WHAT? I DO WITH HIM?"—Human children assert the only ones who make a monkey out of man. Mother clings at the London, England, zoo has been going round-and-round with baby. And sleep-time is still hours away.

JOHN KEITH MacDonald, 43, right, one of Canada's most wanted men, is taken into custody by RCMP constable. He's a suspect in B.C. post office theft.

LISTEN TO THE PAINTINGS—Shape, line and color can be inferred in—on Mrs. Amy Hillman, shown with test of her creation. She should know. That's how the 35-year-old New York City artist receives her inspiration. She listens to a symphony or other composition, then plugs her ears to shut out unwanted distractions. Wielding her brush instead of a baton, she then "composes" on canvas, translating sound into color and line.

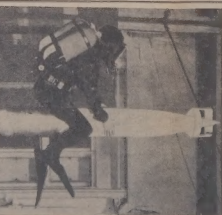

MAKES OLYMPIC SKI HISTORY—Tony Sailer, Austria's ski star, is seen after winning his third gold medal in the winter Olympics at Cortina. This is the first time any skier has triumphed in the special slalom and the giant slalom.

HERE CASE IN MAKING HEADLINES—Carolyn Sue Whorton kidnapped from her hospital crib in Beaumont, Texas, last March, when she was only 20 minutes old, holds a newspaper telling of the abduction of a year for the trial of Mrs. Pauline Schmitz of Houston, charged with the crime. Carolyn was recovered within the day after she was abducted.

TIMED TO PERFECTION—Someone in Pesaro, Italy, has all the time in the Adriatic beach resort on his hands. He needs it, to keep this sundialery clock in tick-tock order. Dwarf statue from the antique, hovers the center of the dial and white sand completes the face of the garden's masterpiece.

SURMARIER BEHIND BUSTER—British frogman rides a wicked-looking stunt in the hydrodynamic laboratory at Tsingtau, China. Surprised, he mounted the testing in a tank filled with specially filtered water which allows maximum visibility from observation ports in background. Fearlessness of windows is an optical illusion. They're nearly life test suits; no opposite side of the tank from the camera.

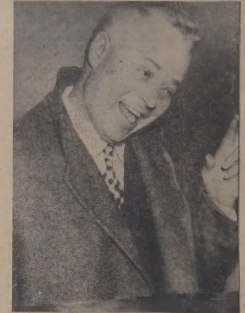

FASHIONABLE?—It is in a chilly beach. The long cloth tent, made in designed to keep chilly winds after a swim. One of the London, England, costume makers it appears useful also as a dressing tent. It's styled by Linda London.

RAHANY GIBBLE ANYTOR, 19-year-old queen of the Quebec Winter Carnival, waves to the crowd following colorful coronation ceremony in the Quebec City stadium. Linger, a long distance telephone operator, won the title in competition against six other pretty candidates. The parades occurred at the left in Bonhomme Carnaval, symbol of the winter show which continued until February 14.

SINGER BILLY DANIELS—cusses fingers in good luck sign at New York police station where he was booked on charges in connection with a Harlem shooting.

TOMORROW?—If you're planning a return trip to Terra in about the year 2000, here's a preview of the business of tomorrow. He says the first man after Raymond that. Then, resembles an asteroid, red-eyed giant in dark is supposed to catch the eye of a pilot just back from the wind-whipped red sand of Mars.
